Purposive Communication

Audience and purpose

Understand

Audience refers to the people who receive a message. Purpose is the result the writer wants the message to achieve. Clear communication chooses details and tone that suit both audience and purpose.

Worked example

For classmates: Please bring your draft to our 2 PM peer review. For a new learner: Bring one paragraph you want feedback on. We will meet at 2 PM to discuss clarity and organization.

Try it, then check.

Practice question

Why might a message to a new learner need more explanation?

Answer and reasoning

The learner may not share the background knowledge of the class. Explain unfamiliar tasks and terms.

Reflect

Explain the steps in your own words. Create a review card and return to page 1 when you need the original explanation.
